

Bonalu is a one of the folk festival popular in Telangana state. The Goddesses are worshipped and offered food which is later shared among the family member. Women folk participate in the procession carrying "Ghatamas" or ornamented pots filled with palm wine on their heads. The women devotees also carry brass vessels or clay pots filled with cooked rice and decorated with neem leaves. The male dancers who accompany them are known as "Phothurajulu". Who lead the procession by lashing whips and holding neem leaves.